Cindy McBride

“Searching for Soul in Portraiture”

6:30PM January 5, 2026, at Midwest City Library

Cindy McBride’s love for art began at an early age. She took private art lessons through high school and then earned a B.S. in Art Education and later a Master’s in Education. However, her career as an artist has been on again off again through the years. In the ‘70s and ‘80s she volunteered for mission work in Africa. Upon returning to the States, she immersed herself in art in both California and Oklahoma demonstrating and speaking to small and large art organizations, hanging in galleries, winning numerous professional awards, taking 36 hours of graduate level art classes, and selling work by commissions and through showings. However, needing a living wage, she entered a career in teaching English as a Second Language. This brought her to San Antonio where she worked at Defense Language Institute at Lackland AFB for 17 years.

Although she continued her portrait work for commissions and exhibited in a few places, her ESL career took most of her time, energy and effort. After retiring from that career in 2014, she returned to art with a renewed eagerness. She taught pastels at both the Coppini Academy of Fine Art and The Southwest School of Art for several years before relocating back to her home in Oklahoma City in 2021.

Portraiture is Cindy’s heart felt subject, although she does paint figures and still lifes as well. She is a signature member of the Pastel Society of America. Her style was influenced by studying Impressionism in her early years with renowned Oklahoma City artist Dick Goetz. Abstract

Impressionism, personified in Nicolai Fechin, is her favorite style. She loves to use brilliant colors as well as subtle varieties. Pastels are her favorite medium, oils second. When asked how long it takes to do one of her vibrant portraits, she likes to say, “Sixty years!” It has taken her 60 years of experience to get to the level of skill that she now has. And she expects she will be increasing her skills for a few more years.

Cindy’s art name is “Sindisiwe” which she adopted when she lived in Africa. Needless to say, Africans are among her favorite subjects to paint. She loves teaching art and giving demonstrations. Her collections are found in homes around the world.

LOCAL ARTIST OPPORTUNITIES

Lost and Found Art project: Make small paintings, put our special label on back, seal in plastic bag and “hide” in public place. Labels will be provided at the meeting. You choose or make some paintings or drawings to “Lose on Purpose” to promote your art as well as to promote the Guild.

Your Artist Page on our MDAG Website: You can have a sample gallery of your artwork (6-8 pieces) and your Artist Statement and Bio posted in our Gallery of Member Artists. Send an email with pictures of your artwork attached and a short bio and artist statement to mdag.news@gmail.com and we will get them posted. Your Artist Statement should answer questions like where are you from, how/when did you get interested in art, what style art are you drawn to create, interesting thing(s) to know about you, what motivates you, what other passions consume your time, and contact info. A bio should include a good headshot picture, what is your education and art training, where has your art been shown, have you a gallery that represents you, etc.

Just to brighten your day!

A Mid-Del Art Guild artist “lost” this art—on purpose—for YOU to find and bring a ray of sunshine your way!

What will you do with it? Frame it? Give it away? Leave it for others to find?

Please send an email to mdag.news@gmail.com with a photo of what you do with your new piece of art. Tell us where you found it and anything else you’d like to mention. Enjoy your original art!
